The Kingspan KoolDuct System

The Kingspan KoolDuct System offers the optimum energy-saving and environmental solution compared with other types of ductwork as a result of its air-tight construction and pre-insulated format. The UL-listed system can help to significantly cut carbon emissions by reducing air-leakage rates to a fraction of that for traditional ductwork systems; easily achieving SMACNA Class 3. In fact, the U.S. Green Building Council chose the system for its new LEED Platinum-rated offices in Washington, DC.

Kingspan KoolDuct Panels

Kingspan KoolDuct rigid insulation panels are among the most thermally efficient and technically advanced available. Compared with fiber ductboard, the panel's core is 100 percent fiber-free, modified resin with a 90 percent (or greater) moisture-resistant, closed-cell structure. To learn more about Kingspan and the KoolDuct System, please visit: www.insulation.kingspan.com/internationalkoolduct/.
